#	IF YOU COULD CHANGE ONE THING ABOUT NEW COLLEGE, WHAT WOULD IT BE?	DATE
1	The leadership	1/4/2021 8:34 AM
2	Increase diversity of student body	1/3/2021 9:25 PM
3	Increase enrollment	1/3/2021 7:22 AM
4	its headlong trajectory toward an undefined mediocre institution trying to do a little of everything	1/2/2021 11:32 PM
5	Reward faculty performance	1/2/2021 7:53 PM
6	refocus on learning for its own sake	1/2/2021 6:14 PM
7	better quality of living (better food, better living accomadations)	1/1/2021 2:20 PM
8	Develop a management structure that embodies and supports the long-standing ethos of the college.	1/1/2021 10:39 AM
9	To get more publicized support for the New Crew team. There has been no effort to promote the existence of New Crew in their recruiting/enrollment process. Sarasota is the rowing capital of the United States and ivy leagues from up north come down to where we are to row at Benderson park that has hosted world championships, national championships, Olympic trials, and much more (our main practice location and partner). New College needs to publicize our rowing team, for we are guaranteed an increase in enrollment if the world knew that New College ran collegiate rowing in Sarasota.	1/1/2021 6:49 AM
10	A more inclusive environment that was more welcoming to differences in experience and perspective	12/30/2020 8:36 AM
11	Increase diversity and Inclusion	12/29/2020 8:32 PM
12	have people outside of ncf take it more seriously	12/29/2020 2:59 PM

18	More resources for student support	12/28/2020 3:28 PM
19	I wish people were kinder to one another, sometimes the political atmosphere can become tense	12/28/2020 3:04 PM
20	Increase racial diversity of students and faculty	12/28/2020 2:29 PM
21	Invest resources in marketing efforts.	12/28/2020 1:45 PM
22	The campus life	12/28/2020 1:12 PM
23	More stability through more enrollment	12/28/2020 1:07 PM
24	supports for a much more supportive on-campus environment - that is, improve the non-academic aspects of life as a New College student	12/28/2020 1:04 PM
25	more career orientation for those not going to graduate or professional school (I gather this change is already underway the new career center leadership - but it should be supported and integrated into campus life)	12/28/2020 11:00 AM
26	Student life has been pretty dull throughout my 4 years as a student (at times, campus can feel very isolating and depressing)	12/28/2020 10:15 AM
27	more stability	12/28/2020 9:44 AM
28	make it more Florida friendly: oriented toward Florida residents, Florida vegetation, Florida economics, Florida as an international hub,	12/28/2020 9:39 AM

29	Have the trustees and admin insist on professionalism (emphasis on professional ethics and law-abiding)	12/28/2020 9:26 AM
30	Staff become a point of consideration during decisions. Hurricane coming? Staff will be there but faculty and students need to work from home or flee.	12/28/2020 9:15 AM
31	Students need a GPA so that they can compete better in private sector. We have farce and fraud system determining ad hoc GPA for those who ask for one after graduation. .	12/28/2020 8:53 AM
32	the ability for us to work together more to support our students and make it easier for them to navigate their experience	12/28/2020 8:44 AM
33	Greater financial support for students	12/28/2020 8:33 AM
34	lack of organized processes	12/28/2020 8:30 AM
35	financial and political standing	12/28/2020 8:25 AM
36	Human resources, esp. employee engagement, but this starts with a President who is actively involved in showing care for their campus	12/28/2020 8:21 AM
37	more support for students	12/26/2020 6:51 PM
38	Intellectual elitism	12/24/2020 8:32 AM
39	continue to market your unique academic model	12/23/2020 9:16 AM
40	There should be better support structures in place for students who have difficulties. f	12/22/2020 11:24 PM
41	Greater community support	12/22/2020 3:25 PM
42	The overprotectiveness and resistance to change that comes from a lack of faith in the enduring persistence of the New College mission in today's world	12/21/2020 10:00 AM
43	meaningful alumni interaction	12/20/2020 4:15 PM
44	While I know many speak about the need to further diversify the student body from a racial and ethnic perspective (which I agree with), I believe that New College needs to also focus on more thought diversity and tolerance of that diversity. In my experience, the New College community, and the student body in particular, is not especially tolerant of viewpoints and backgrounds that don't fall in line with what I guess you would call "the hard left." I believe that Bill Woodson and others are doing a great job in trying to make changes in this area, but I think that much work still needs to be done, which will ultimately help with student recruitment and retention efforts. I also understand that some of this has been the identity of the college and I don't expect that to radically change, but in order for New College to appeal to more people, I think that some movement is necessary..	12/18/2020 10:12 AM
45	More connections between alum & current students, better mental health resources.	12/18/2020 8:57 AM
46	Its communication (of identity and purpose) problem. On campus and off.	12/17/2020 12:02 PM
47	more robust literary arts	12/17/2020 9:41 AM
48	A stronger link to the surrounding community, as well as more professional opportunities for students, both in Sarasota and elsewhere	12/17/2020 4:44 AM
49	Reunions are too short	12/16/2020 5:21 PM
50	I would like to remove a lot of the negativity that is in our culture, and for us to be more positive in our outlook and more supportive of one another.	12/15/2020 2:55 PM
51	Increase diversity--especially hiring more faculty of color and queer faculty	12/15/2020 2:25 PM
52	limited opportunities for research with graduate students.	12/15/2020 2:13 PM
53	I wish the administration not only listened but actually implemented more of what students want to change on things like food quality, COVID safety, and policing. Sometimes it feels like we are listened to but not actually heard.	12/15/2020 11:08 AM
54	leadership	12/15/2020 9:22 AM
55	solve the lack of matriculation from Freshman to Sophomore years	12/14/2020 5:21 PM

New College of Florida - President Search

56	The near absence of campus culture and community (which is a problem that precedes COVID). Student facilities are dreary and under-resourced, events are under-attended, dining options are limited and bland, and there are few places for spontaneous gatherings. There's not even a coffee shop on campus!	12/14/2020 3:10 PM
57	I would add more structure. In my own experience, students can often feel lost within a system that it's quite idiosyncratic.	12/14/2020 2:53 PM
58	its reputation of having "weird" students and also a weak academic program. I have taught at other, top-notch liberal arts colleges, and New College, in terms of the education provided, is not far behind. (It is far behind in other areas.)	12/14/2020 2:29 PM
59	Administrative inefficiency and bureaucracy	12/14/2020 2:16 PM
60	Less combative student culture	12/14/2020 12:15 PM
61	funding availability	12/14/2020 10:41 AM
62	Increase social awareness/decrease social awkwardness	12/14/2020 9:46 AM
63	I would want synergetics and comprehensive anticipatory design to be taught. Buckminster Fuller should be in curricula.	12/14/2020 8:52 AM
64	revive faculty governance	12/14/2020 8:51 AM
65	Lately, administration has been making decisions that are not in the best interest of students.	12/13/2020 1:58 PM
66	I would better assist students in job placement, and better prepare them for life outside the bubble when they leave. for	12/13/2020 8:41 AM
67	location -- Florida will never be big enough to encompass what NC might come to be.	12/11/2020 6:22 PM
68	More artists, philosophers, and poets...	12/11/2020 4:12 PM

73	a lot of the facilities were in need of overhaul 30 years ago	12/9/2020 8:05 AM
74	Low level of extracurricular offerings	12/9/2020 7:57 AM
75	Letting students get a raw look at employment implications for their AOC.	12/9/2020 7:42 AM
76	have an atmosphere that is more helpful to each other providing initial and continuing job training so that staff are kind and respect each other and a faculty that recognizes the staff as human partners	12/9/2020 7:17 AM
77	The plan to increase enrollment	12/9/2020 1:02 AM
78	bureaucratic hoops students have to go through; cancel culture	12/9/2020 12:44 AM
79	It's trying to be what some nerdy administrator thinks Tallahassee wants instead of what everyone know it is.	12/8/2020 10:43 PM

87	The need to grow further in order to be self-sustaining.	12/8/2020 7:26 PM
88	Encourage more cross-disciplinary study	12/8/2020 6:58 PM
89	More representative	12/8/2020 6:36 PM
90	Increase the selectivity of the school. When I applied (1987) it was among the top liberal arts colleges in the country. Now it AKS no longer competitive for admission, I can't imagine that won't have a negative impact on the quality of the students and faculty it attracts.	12/8/2020 6:32 PM
91	Fewer thesis students per faculty member	12/8/2020 6:30 PM
92	It's modesty	12/8/2020 4:44 PM
93	Improved stability (both overall, legislatively and financially, and in terms of enrollment)	12/8/2020 2:47 PM
94	More transparency and accountability	12/8/2020 1:33 PM
95	Lessen bureaucracy to the extent possible.	12/8/2020 1:20 PM
96	Make it less insular.	12/8/2020 1:02 PM
97	A greater understanding that the things that make it outstanding are the very same things that make it unlike other schools.	12/8/2020 12:31 PM

#	RESPONSES	DATE
1	Please look for someone who has a connection to the school or who has worked in a setting similar in nature to New College. It is difficult to wrap your mind around the benefits of maintaining some of the programs and growing others within the school without a firm grounding in what New College is all about.	1/3/2021 9:25 PM
2	Successful candidates need to understand our precarious situation and have a strategic vision to navigate it	1/3/2021 7:22 AM
3	The President must know and believe in liberal arts education, be a good administrator of top-level positions, leave governance of the academic program to faculty and the Provost, and be excited about projecting the college to external audiences.	1/2/2021 11:32 PM
4	To choose someone who knows and understands that top class teaching grows out of being a top class scholar	1/2/2021 7:53 PM
5	The new president must believe in our academic structure and be savvy enough politically to defend it.	1/2/2021 6:14 PM
6	a prioritizing of candidates from marginalized identities, specifically BIPOC folks, as BIPOC folks have been underserved and underheard on campus	1/1/2021 2:20 PM
7	Preferably I would like a President who either has experience rowing or knows the importance of supporting the New Crew SRQ team.	1/1/2021 6:49 AM
8	Identifying a candidate who combines charisma, operational acumen, political savvy, and an appreciation for the unique value of a liberal AT&T's education	12/30/2020 8:36 AM
9	I was hoping for more pointed questions regarding fiduciary knowledge and skills, capacity to build strong and mutually beneficial relationships with non profit, corporate entities and more effectively re-engage alumni, commitment to diversity in staff and student body, commitment to strong academic programming and cultivating strong partnerships for internships and future employment pipelines.	12/29/2020 8:32 PM
10	candidate should want academic rigour, yet be true to NCF's character (uniqueness); address racism and discrimination--including getting more people (particularly students) of colour at NCF; stay true to a liberal arts college mindset	12/29/2020 2:59 PM
11	Community engagement!	12/29/2020 11:53 AM
12	That it is collaborative rather than consensus driven.	12/29/2020 8:57 AM
13	I think it truly is helpful to have some prior association with New College, but also don't want to make that a non-negotiable because we have blind spots and we also need those with experience that challenges and informs same.	12/28/2020 11:52 PM
14	If I had a penny for every time an administrator said they value my contribution but never sought my expert opinion when it's painfully obvious that's what they need, I'd be a rich man.	12/28/2020 8:42 PM
15	The new president needs to indicate that they care about student desires, needs, and equity. They need to actually care about listening to what students feel is and isn't working at NCF, they need to know how to communicate clearly and carefully about institutional decisions that intimately affect the lives of students, faculty, and staff, and they need to recognize that this is not just where we go to school, but it's also where we live. For many of us, it's home. Anyone who works here should understand, respect, and allow themselves to be guided by that simple truth.	12/28/2020 3:40 PM
16	The opportunity is great and must be taken advantage of to revitalize a once truly exceptional small liberal arts colleges in the world.	12/28/2020 3:34 PM
17	Transparency and open mindedness	12/28/2020 3:28 PM
18	Our president needs to respect the campus culture and be extremely willing to listen to student needs. A president that doesn't try to work with students directly isn't going to be very successful here.	12/28/2020 3:04 PM
19	Including all members of the college in the search. Especially the faculty and the students	12/28/2020 1:12 PM
20	Being receptive to finding someone who is charismatic and willing to work passionately for	12/28/2020 1:04 PM

21	It's important that the new president actually believe in New College's strengths and is willing to advocate for them. There are certainly areas where NCF can improve, but we don't need to be "fixed" into some conventional view of what a college should be. The president should be a person excited to explain to the world why New College's educational philosophy and learning environment are the greatest thing ever. We don't need to apologize - we need to evangelize	12/28/2020 11:00 AM
22	We need to hire a great communicator who is at least somewhat of an extrovert and believes wholeheartedly in our mission.	12/28/2020 9:44 AM
23	Strong public speaker with some faith in the humanities (I think these are Don's weaknesses, so I am biased)	12/28/2020 9:39 AM
24	faculty representation - great to have Chair of the Faculty on the committee and two Trustee-chosen professors but integrating the search onto the campus community is needed for "buy in"	12/28/2020 9:26 AM
25	Please for the love of everything holy please hire someone who will stick around and actually do their job. Over the last three years there has been so much turnover and ineffective temporary "leaders" put into place. Please please please bring someone with a backbone who can stand up to faculty, who can challenge alumni, and can at least go into the community and build relationships with our stakeholders.	12/28/2020 9:15 AM
26	We have to look before we leap and stop pretending that we do not have structural problems at NCF.	12/28/2020 8:53 AM
27	The next president needs to understand the importance of public education and embrace that part of our identity.	12/28/2020 8:44 AM
28	The successful candidate must be a strong proponent of liberal arts education, infused with experiences that support career planning	12/28/2020 8:33 AM

30	the person needs to be able to manage the state politics without denigrating the alternative aspects that make NC what it is	12/26/2020 6:51 PM
31	Please concentrate on the leadership attributes of candidates. It will be very important for this individual to be highly respected in the academic community so she/he will be accepted by the faculty, staff and students. Further, this person has to be highly skilled in collaboration and influencing skills, along with being a proven fund raiser. This person must have the courage to make difficult decisions and be a true advocate of academic independence and open dialogue to stimulate critical thinking. This is an incredible opportunity for someone to lead NCF into assuring long term survival and success. Please do not settle for a "consensus" type candidate who tries to make everyone "happy".	12/23/2020 9:16 AM
32	While not essential, it would be an excellent idea to look hard at alums who would be qualified and interested in the job.	12/22/2020 11:24 PM
33	Thank you for asking!	12/22/2020 3:25 PM
34	To be successful, the candidate must be adroit at change management that relies on intentional, persuasive and relentless communication, collaborative learning about solutions to problems and mediation toward leadership decisions that are supported.	12/21/2020 10:00 AM
35	must have connections with other colleges, industries, and universities	12/20/2020 4:15 PM
36	I believe that it is critical that the next president be an effective spokesperson for New College and that he/she has a strong grasp and understanding of business processes/procedures. Whereas the quality of our academic program and faculty is unquestioned, I believe that there is a lot of work to do in professionalizing the staff and modernizing our operations. We are certainly moving in the right direction and I have been impressed by recent hires, but there's still much work to be done, and we need a president that understands the importance of this.	12/18/2020 10:12 AM
37	Lots of input from students and alum	12/18/2020 8:57 AM

college, but about the practices, courses of study, collaborations within the community and with other institutions, organizations. Whoever leads New College into the future must appreciate what New College has to offer, yet can inspire the vision, confidence, and communication and relationship building skills to make desired change.

39	Need someone capable of dealing with difficult legislators in a conservative state--tough for a college that, by its nature, is wholly liberal in its approach	12/17/2020 9:41 AM
40	Please consider New College alumni above all!!! They are the only ones truly capable of understanding what it means to be both a student and a professor/academic, and to have the capacity to change the NCF experience for the better (and most importantly, for the students).	12/17/2020 4:44 AM
41	Everyone who does not get chosen should be part of a several-part panel discussion on what they think about New College.	12/16/2020 5:21 PM
42	We need someone who wants to lead a unique place like New College, not someone who wants to make us just like every other school. We need a champion who will advocate for an experimental liberal arts college, raise money to support it, and build stronger relationships with state government and the local community.	12/15/2020 2:55 PM
43	The importance of sponsored projects & the research, scholarly, & creative enterprise to the potential growth of NCF.	12/15/2020 2:43 PM
44	A president that isn't already quite conversant in trans and queer terminology and concerns won't adequately understand the dynamics of this university. It's crucial that we have someone who has concrete, well-informed ideas about increasing diversity on campus; Art and Sciences didn't make this point well, but when they said that the traditional college population is declining in coming years, it seemed that what they were saying is that white middle-class students whose parents went to college is a shrinking demographic. We have to figure out how to better recruit and support the needs of first-gen students and students of color in addition to marketing more effectively to the "traditional" college student population.	12/15/2020 2:25 PM
45	I would hope that the new President would be open-minded about diverse opportunities for collaborations with the community, other universities in and outside FL, and the corporate world. I would also hope that the new President would lead the college to remain competitive in the academic world by introducing and offering new programs in state-of-the-art domains or trending/emerging fields. One of the most important characteristics would be being extremely extravert and reaching out to diverse set of organizations who can support the growth and recognition of our college.	12/15/2020 2:13 PM
46	I would really hope the search committee would take New College into the 21st Century by not selecting yet another white man to lead this school. We need better diversity within the administration, and the fact that we haven't had a single woman or person of color leading this school ever, is kind of shameful. I also hope the search includes looking for someone who values social justice as much as the students, faculty, and alumni do. Finding someone who values and is sensitive to racial justice, LGBT and gender issues, disability justice, and environmental issues is important.	12/15/2020 11:08 AM
47	Find someone with the right values who can solve problems, make decisions, and manage a team.	12/15/2020 9:22 AM
48	Don't make the Judy Genshaft Honors college mistake.	12/14/2020 5:21 PM
49	I am deeply concerned that our ongoing conversations about the future of this institution are shaped by an overly constrained understanding of what a liberal arts education is for. Certainly, a New College education should prepare students for a career. But this is only part of what is valuable about the liberal arts. I seldomly hear folks at this institution defend our academic program by appealing to other benefits of a liberal arts education, e.g., its civic and humanistic dimensions. These do not need to come at the expense of career preparedness! But we also do not need to entirely accept the terms and metrics of the state legislature when defining our mission. To do so is self-undermining, maybe even suicidal. A liberal arts education is an indispensable public good in a democratic society. If we accept that we are simply an institution for career credentialing we will never be able to justify what we do or why the public should pay for it. A president who recognizes this -- while also knowing how and when to make rhetorical concessions in negotiating with the state government -- would be tremendously valuable.	12/14/2020 3:10 PM vision and ambition, I would choose the second. I think we have a tendency to get second-tier administrators on their last job before retirement, and I think we deserve to bet on a younger, ambitious administrator who has a vision and wants to implement it.

51	The new president needs to be open to a potential merger with other members of SUS. From my (faculty) position, the single most important issue is that we maintain our academic program and continue to educate students. Given the financial uncertainties, it is not certain that this will continue. I (and many of my colleagues) would rather teach under an umbrella of UF or FSU or someone else, as long as we are teaching, rather than being shut down completely. (I realize this is difficult, because I assume the president would stop being a president if such a merger occurs.)	12/14/2020 2:29 PM
52	Transparency and participation by all NCF groups (students, faculty, admin, BSU, etc.)	12/14/2020 12:15 PM
53	someone who knows how to reach out to the community and how to fundraise for us.	12/14/2020 10:41 AM
54	I think our candidate needs to be involved with students, care about student input, and represent NCF accurately.	12/14/2020 9:46 AM
55	Yes, I believe that a good president should be willing to listen to students and be open minded about the culture of psychedelic exploration on campus. Unfortunately, the administration during my time ('11-'16) suppressed many substance education / harm reduction efforts led by students and even alumni on campus. When campus parties are shut down, educational flyers are removed, etc., behavior becomes more dangerous and more deadly. A new president should be willing to understand the positives of the drug culture at New College in order to enact policies (ideally informed by SSDP) that actually keep students safer.	12/14/2020 8:52 AM
56	The search should involve alumni if possible.	12/14/2020 8:51 AM

60	The new President should have the drive and passion for wanting to represent the current and future students, faculty and staff. I hope they come in with an open mind and see the amazing potential this campus has to offer. I hope they will come in and assess the situation and climate and then offer their changes and insight instead of just immediately making major changes. I also hope they value the input from the students, faculty and staff.	12/11/2020 2:03 PM

63	I think a successful President needs to "get" New College. It's hard, but not impossible for an outsider to do that.	12/9/2020 8:05 AM
64	Perhaps New College should stop branding itself as more prestigious than it actually is, and instead focus on building its reputation and attracting more students. I commend the efforts to guarantee admission to nearby high schoolers who meet certain requirements. New College, thanks to its relatively lower selectivity, enabled me and other B+ students to receive an elite education at a very low price.	12/9/2020 7:57 AM
65	NCF needs to stay relevant. I would like to see studio classes where people from across discipline work together to solve common problems. I would like to see more of this interdisciplinary approach.	12/9/2020 7:42 AM
66	This candidate should be a "team" representative...advocating for staff equally as much as the faculty and students are advocated	12/9/2020 7:17 AM
67	New College is a non-traditional school. We need a non-traditional president, but one who can still work with the State Education people.	12/9/2020 1:02 AM

73	Someone who can manage a very challenging political landscape with aplomb.	12/8/2020 8:38 PM
74	The NCF president has to be willing to listen to student input to be successful in the long run.	12/8/2020 8:36 PM
75	It seems that a successful president must both share the values of the institution (faculty, students, and alumni) but also have the political ability to protect the institution from Florida's politics.	12/8/2020 7:33 PM
76	Get someone with experience, who wants to spend their career in this role. Avoid folks who are looking for a stepping stone. Encourage folks who have taught in liberal arts communities.	12/8/2020 7:26 PM
77	Widely soliciting feedback seems great!	12/8/2020 6:58 PM
78	Someone who listens to students and brings in a lot of money	12/8/2020 6:36 PM
79	You have a hard job. Balancing the State pressures, pressure to grow, and not to let mediocrity that is the constant risk of in the current environment (where numbers + more in-state residents is the seemingly all-important goal) while trying to increase quality. Don't let alumnae/i and student demands for some kind of purity discourage an ambitious leader. Every college suffers from that these days! Find somebody for us who appreciates the essence of New College. Appreciates the unique (and these days it is really true!) educational model. They can build on that. Don't dump it for the expedient! Somebody who gets that will realize that there is a much harder short term, but a much more spectacular long-term future for NC! Lots of friends are out here to help him or her do the job!	12/8/2020 6:32 PM

85	Understanding the "typical" student is non-typical, capable of taking on advanced responsibility but also in need of different kinds of support.	12/8/2020 12:31 PM

87	Finding a president who can both successfully smooch with the Florida Legislature and not too terribly alienate the progressive students and alums. A tall order.	12/8/2020 12:10 PM
88	I think NCF has focused WAY too much on administration and not nearly enough on professors and students. The right president will be less invested in expanding administrative staff and more interested in creating a better student and professor experience.	12/8/2020 12:08 PM
89	willing to listen to students	12/8/2020 11:38 AM
90	The president should care more about the students than about the stock market.	12/8/2020 11:31 AM

101	Yes. Its crucial that whoever is chosen is prepared to fight to keep New College independent.	12/7/2020 3:54 PM
102	This needs to be someone who is extremely passionate about the NCF program and how it helps students. I would also prefer that it be someone who already works here/has worked here/has worked at a similar institution/is an alumni. We don't need people coming in trying to make NCF more mainstream.
