New College of Florida Standing Committees

Faculty Planning & Budget Committee (FPBC)

Membership: Three tenured faculty members, one from each Division, plus the Chair of the Faculty (ex officio) and the Provost and Vice-President for Academic Affairs (ex officio). The Vice President for Finance and Administration (ex officio) and the Finance Controller (ex officio) serve as non-voting staff. A faculty member, normally the Chair of the Faculty, serves as Chair. The committee meets year-round in order to respond to State budget cycles; faculty serving on the FPBC will receive a stipend for summer work. Elections for faculty representatives are conducted by the FASC after the elections for the PAC. Faculty members are not required to stand for election to the FPBC. Faculty members already elected to serve on the PAC are not eligible to run for the FPBC. Faculty committee members are elected by the entire voting faculty, usually for a two-year term. To preserve the continuity of the committee, while at the same time maintaining two-year terms as much as possible, when there is a need to elect three new faculty members (excluding the Chair of the Faculty) in the same year, one faculty member will be elected to a one-year term. Faculty members elected to the FPBC are expected to serve their full term, without interruption, and must be available for meetings during the summer. If, for circumstances unforeseen, a faculty member is forced to interrupt their term of service on the committee, a new committee member from the appropriate Division will be elected for a term of at least two years. Faculty members are eligible to run for one successive term.

The Provost and the Division Chairs are ex-officio, non-voting members attending meetings only as required. Faculty appointments to the FASC are made by the eighth week of classes of the Spring semester or no later than the April Division meeting.

Student Academic Status Committee (SASC)

Membership: Three faculty members (excluding the divisional chairs), one from each Division determined by automatic rotation according to the order in a divisional list of faculty available to serve in the SASC; two students from different Divisions (in their areas of concentration) chosen by student procedures. SASC members serve two-year terms but are not eligible for successive terms. Faculty members are expected to serve on the SASC unless they have served on either the PAC or the SASC in the previous three years. Service for three or more full semesters in the SASC exempts the faculty member from service in that committee for the following two years. Faculty members who have been elected or appointed for service as Chair or Secretary of the Faculty, to the PAC, the EPC, the FASC or the IRB, are exempt from serving on the SASC during the period of their service in those positions. The Division Chairs manage the lists of available faculty and supervise the procedures in their divisions. Selection procedures and exemptions are described in Section 3.7.3

The Director of International Studies is appointed by the Provost after consultation with ISC, normally for a term of at least two and no more than three years. The Director may be reappointed, but should not serve more than six consecutive years. The person filling this position should be a tenured faculty member teaching in one of the fields related to International Studies and should have served at least two of the previous five years on the ISC at the time of appointment. Other committee members are appointed by the Division Chairs annually with the consent of their Divisions. At-large committee members are appointed after consultation with the Director of International Studies. The preference for the first at-large member goes to the Division of Natural Sciences. If that Division does not have staff with international interests available to serve on the ISC, the other two Divisions should share the slots. Three student members are elected by the student body from among active participants in the curriculum or internationalization efforts in the New College community. These student members have voting privileges. Ex-Officio members are the Director of the Office of Career Services and Off-campus Study and the Director of Research Programs/Services.
